

Chapter 2

The Person's Rights

Lesson 2.1

- Define the key terms and key abbreviations listed in this chapter.
- Explain the purpose of The Patient Care Partnership: Understanding Expectations, Rights, and Responsibilities.
- Describe the purposes and requirements of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 (OBRA).

Lesson 2.1 (Cont.)

- Identify the person's rights under OBRA.
- Explain how to protect the person's rights.
- Explain the ombudsman role.
- Explain how to promote PRIDE in the person, the family, and yourself.

Patient Rights

- The American Hospital Association adopted The Patient Care Partnership: Understanding Expectations, Rights, and Responsibilities. This document:
 - Explains the person's rights and expectations during hospital stays.
 - Stresses the relationship between the doctor, health team, and patient.

Residents' Rights

- Residents have rights as United States citizens.
- Some residents cannot exercise their rights.
 - A representative (partner, adult child, court-appointed guardian) does so for them.
- Nursing centers must inform residents of their rights, both orally and in writing.

OBRA

- The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (OBRA) is a federal law.
- Nursing centers must provide care in a manner and in a setting that maintains or improves each person's quality of life, health, and safety.

Information

- The right to information means access to all records about the person.
 - They include the medical record, contracts, incident reports, and financial records.
 - The request can be oral or written.
- The person has the right to be fully informed of his or her health condition.
- The person must also have information about his or her doctor.

Refusing Treatment

- The person has the right to refuse treatment. A person who does not give consent or refuses treatment cannot be treated against his or her wishes.
- The center must find out what the person is refusing and why.
 - Find out the reason for the refusal.
 - Explain the problems that can result from the refusal.
 - Offer other treatment options.
 - Continue to provide all other services.

Refusing Treatment (Cont.)

- Advance directives:
 - Are part of the right to refuse treatment.
 - Include living wills and instruction about life support.
 - Contain written instructions about health care when the person is not able to make such decisions.

Privacy and Confidentiality

- Residents have the right to personal privacy.
 - A person has the right to use the bathroom in private.
 - Residents have the right to visit with others in private—in areas where others cannot see or hear them.
 - The right to privacy also includes mail.
 - Information about the person's care, treatment, and condition is kept confidential.

Personal Choice

- Residents have the right to make their own choices.
 - They can choose their own doctors.
 - They also help plan and decide about their care and treatment.
 - They can choose activities, schedules, and care.
 - They can choose when to get up and go to bed, what to wear, how to spend their time, and what to eat.
 - They can choose friends and visitors inside and outside the center.

Grievances

- Residents have the right to voice concerns, questions, and complaints about treatment and care.
 - The problem may involve another person.
 - It may be about care that was given or not given.

Work

- The resident has the right to work or perform services if he or she wants to do so.
 - Some people like to garden, repair or build things, clean, sew, mend, or cook.
 - Other persons need work for rehabilitation or activity reasons.

Resident Groups

- The resident has the right to form and take part in resident groups.
- Residents have the right to take part in social, cultural, religious, and community events.
- They have the right to receive help when moving to and from events of their choice.

Personal Items

- Residents have the right to keep and use personal items.
- The person's property is protected.
- Protect yourself and the center from being accused of stealing a person's property.

Freedom From Abuse, Mistreatment, and Neglect

- Residents have the right to be free from verbal, sexual, physical, and mental abuse.
- Residents also have the right to be free from involuntary seclusion:
 - Separating the person from others against his or her will
 - Keeping the person in a certain area
 - Keeping the person away from his or her room without consent

Freedom From Abuse, Mistreatment, and Neglect (Cont.)

- No one can abuse, neglect, or mistreat a resident.
- Centers must investigate suspected or reported cases of abuse.
- They cannot employ persons who:
 - Were found guilty of abusing, neglecting, or mistreating others by a court of law
 - Have a finding entered into the state's nursing assistant registry about abuse, neglect, mistreatment, or wrongful acts involving the person's money or property

Freedom From Restraint

- Residents have the right not to have body movements restricted.
 - Some drugs are restraints because they affect mood, behavior, and mental function.
 - Sometimes residents are restrained to protect them from harming themselves or others.

Quality of Life

- Residents have the right to quality of life.
 - They must be cared for in a manner and in a setting that promotes dignity and respect for self.
 - Care must promote physical, mental, and social well-being.

Activities

- Residents have the right to activities that enhance each person's physical, mental, and psycho-social well-being.
 - Centers must provide religious services for spiritual health.

Environment

- Residents have the right to a safe, clean, comfortable, and home-like setting.
 - The person is allowed to have and use personal items to the extent possible.
 - They allow personal choice and promote a home-like setting.
